

Water May Top Special Session Agenda; Taxation a Sure Entry

By VINCENT THOMAS
 Assemblyman, 68th District
 Already, rumors are circulating around our Capitol corridors about the likelihood of a special session being called in conjunction with our 1960 budget session. Even though the opening date for that meeting is more than four months away, political observers are freely predicting that a lengthy list of items will be put on the agenda.

OUR BIGGEST issue very probably will be that of water again, that familiar hardy topic in which all of us, north or south, have had to immerse ourselves for so many past sessions. Certain potent water agencies in our thirsty south have publicly asserted their unhappiness with the bill passed earlier this year, calling for an election in 1960 on a billion and three-quarter dollar bond issue.

Problems in the field of state taxation might also produce considerable heat. Several members have indicated they want another chance at the cigarette tax bill, to shift tax collection from the stamp method now provided to invoice returns. Invoice collection was in the original bill, but the change to stamps was believed needed to secure its passage.

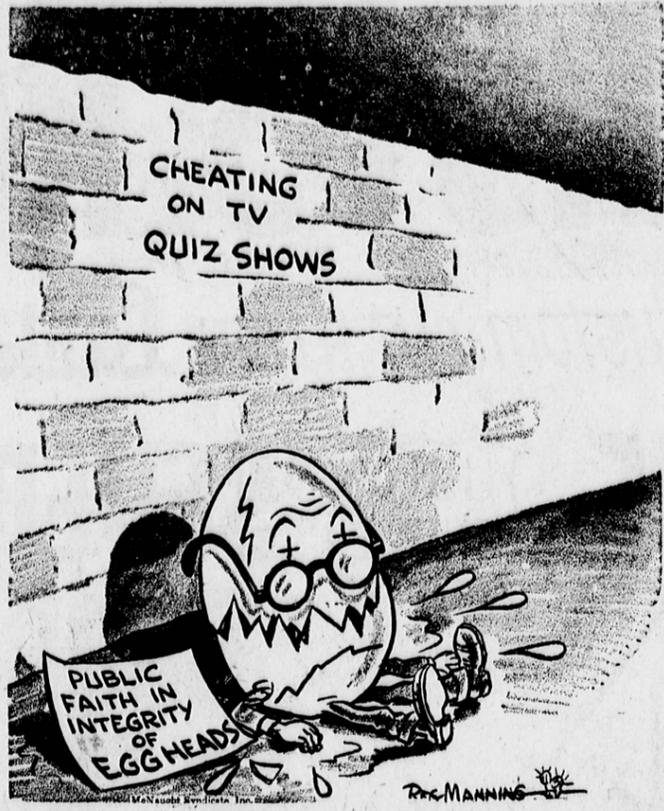

IN THE FIELD of local taxation, two touchy themes have already shown themselves. First, even though a bill was finally passed at our last session relating to property assessments for local tax purposes, many still object to its provisions, so we may be asked to review the matter again. Second, we have been asked already to consider, again granting authority to local taxing bodies to tax machinery and inventories in possession of companies with government contracts, even though actual title is still with the federal government.

Classrooms are still in short supply, and many school districts are eligible for loans to build them, but bond funds for such loans are running short. Therefore, we will probably be asked to put another sizeable issue on the 1960 ballot.

THERE HAS BEEN much newspaper and other discussion of a major reorganization in state government. Certain basic phases of any such move would require our legislative consideration and action, so it, too, might be put before us.
